2022 E.E. Just Undergraduate Fellowship

The EEJUF is a two-year fellowship—held during the junior and senior years—designed to increase the number of underrepresented minorities at Dartmouth who choose to enter a doctoral program in a STEM field after graduation.

Benefits of the EEJUF include:
- Stipend Support for Year-Round Research
- Mentorship from an E.E. Just Faculty Mentor
- Professional Development Workshops
- Professional Development Fund
- Leadership Role within the E.E. Just Community

Eligibility:
Sophomore STEM majors who support the mission of the E.E. Just Program

Application Deadline: April 8, 2022
Visit dartgo.org/EEJUF

About the E.E. Just Program
Named after Ernest Everett Just, a Dartmouth Valedictorian (1907) and pioneering African-American cell biologist, the E.E. Just Program seeks to increase the number of underrepresented minorities at Dartmouth pursuing degrees and careers in STEM disciplines. This is achieved by illuminating pathways to success within a supportive and inclusive community of Dartmouth scientists.

For more information please email Professor Sutton at ee.just.program@dartmouth.edu